GENERAL INTRODUCTION (prepared by Mark Shepherd, private researcher for Frederic Robinson Limited who have kindly allowed us to use his research)

The present town owes its importance to Edward I.'s Castle, but before that was built PORTH WGYR (as the town was originally called) ranked as one of the chief ports of Britain. In 1296, the year in which the Castle was completed, Edward I. fortified the town and incorporated it by charter under the name of Beaumaris, a name evolved by him from Beau and Marias (Marsh). Among the privileges granted to the inhabitants by the charter were:-

1. Free prison in the Castle
2. No Jews might dwell in the town.
3. "If any of the burgesses die testate or intestate, their goods shall be confiscated to the King, but their heirs shall have the same."

Near the old Town Hall (now demolished) stood the Stocks, the Ducking Chair and the Pillory. An eighteenth century writer comments on their disappearance: "It is a pleasing proof of improved morality that the constant exhibition in —terrorem of these instruments of civic justice is no longer necessary." In 1410 the George and Dragon (site of the original building was only a merchants house).

The Isle of Anglesey was the last rallying point of the Welsh chiefs, and when at length Edward I. subdued them, he built a fortress at `forth Wygr' or `Bonover' to consolidate his conquest. This fortress, designed after the model of those at Carnarvon and Aberconway was surrounded by a deep fosse which could be filled from the sea when need arose, and a deep canal was cut to enable vessels to unload their cargoes under the walls of the Castle itself. The Welsh view of the building of the Castle is expressed in Richard Liwyd's poem "Beaumaris Bay."

"Here earth is loaded with a mass of wall
The proud insulting badge of Cambria's fall
By haughty Edward raised; and every stone
Records a sign, a murder or a groan."

The garrison usually consisted of 24 men under a Governor, and Henry Percy (Hotspur) once held the command. Constant friction between the soldiery and the townspeople led to the withdrawal of the garrison by Henry VII, and it was not until 1642 that the Castle was again organised for defence. Thomas Bulkeley became Governor, and held Beaumaris for King Charles I. until 1646, when he was forced to surrender to the Parliamentary troops under General Mytton. At the Restoration, Viscount Bulkeley (as he was then made) was re-instated in his Governorship, and the office was held by his descendants till the death of the last Lord Bulkeley in 1822.

1410 date mentioned when a building appeared on the site of the George and Dragon. (MS no ref)

Felling dates: Winter 1536/7, Winter 1539/40, Winter 1540/41, and Spring 1541

Axial beam 1540(22¼C), 1536(17C); Transverse beam 1539(32C); Joists 1540(31C), 1539(41C, 34C), 1534(21). Site Master 1437-1540 ANGLSY1 (t = 8.6 PLASMAWR; 7.7 SOUTH; 7.6 WALES97).

An important timber-framed and jettied range on a corner site. The wall-framing has been lost and it is difficult to establish if this impressive range had a commercial function. The upper floor was not sampled; it is noted for wall paintings dated 1610. Published account RCAHMW, Anglesey Inventory (1937), p. 15; a detailed survey (2010) commissioned by NWWDP is available in the NMRW. (Oxford Dendrochronology Laboratories)

1595 date mentioned when the present George & Dragon rebuilt (Merchants House) MS (no ref)

1610 date mentioned as to a date inscribed on one of the beams, and when the paintings first appeared. (Merchants House) This was known as the great room in an inventory of a will. (No ref)

1771 June 4 & 5: Indenture of Lease and Release [Sale] by

1. John Williams of Bodelwyddan & Bennet Williams his son & heir to
2. John Lloyd of Beaumaris, shopkeeper of the Red Lion, Church Street. Consideration £135. (UWB, Baron Hill Ms Vol III – family, Anglesey & Caernarfon, ms 3531-3532)

John Williams was the son of John Williams of Bodelwyddan and Chester and his wife Catherine, daughter of Sir Hugh Owen, Bart, of Orierton and Bodeon. It can be speculated that Catherine brought this property into the Bodelwyddan Estate when she married. No marriage settlement or other relevant deed has yet been located.

(Griffith's Pedigrees, pp 18, 19, 58, 83)

1778 February 27 & 28 Indenture of Lease and Release [Creation of Trust] by

John Lloyd (1) to

Thomas Hughes of Beaumaris, gentleman (2) and

Jannett Lloyd of Beaumaris, spinster, one of the daughters of the said Mr Lloyd (3)

“In consideration of natural love and affection which said John Lloyd had and bore for the said Jannet Lloyd his daughter and for settling and assigning the mortgage [...] and in consideration of £10” “all that messuage, dwelling house and shop” were transferred on trust for the use of John Lloyd for his lifetime and after that to Janet Lloyd forever (abstracted in UWB Baron Hill Ms Vol III – family, Anglesey & Caernarfon, ms 3700)

It can be speculated that John Lloyd was about to remarry and wished to protect the interests of his 26 year old unmarried daughter. Jannett, by then a widow, left the property to her two half-sisters, the elder of whom was born around 1780. In the Beaumaris Parish records there is no record of such a marriage, nor any baptism record for the half sisters.

1831 Tuesday 2nd August. The new Steam Packet. 'Eclipse' leaves Caernarfon each morning to Conway, taking passengers to the Liverpool Packets. Mr Williams, George & Dragon, Beaumaris, is the agent. (MS no ref)

1831 18th August The Rothsay Castle Steampacket ship from Liverpool carrying 150 Passengers sank at around 1.00am when she ran aground on Dutchman's Bank. 23 passengers were rescued in the morning. The Captain, who died, was described as drunk. The inquest was held in Beaumaris, Mr John Williams, Innkeeper of the George and Dragon was later a member of the jury. (MS no ref)

1831 19th August In a letter received this morning by Mr Watson [of the Liverpool Mercury], from Mr. John Williams of the George and Dragon, Beaumaris, dated four o'clock, it is stated that the Rothsay Castle was totally lost on the Dutchman's Bank about one o'clock on Wednesday morning. Twenty of crew and passengers were saved. The bodies of seventeen of the sufferers had been washed on the shore, and among the rest those of the steward (Jones) and his wife. The body of the captain has not yet been found. A number of boats were on the look-out, and further particulars of this melancholy event are hourly expected. (The Preston Chronicle August 20, 1831, sourced from the British Library, Gale Document Number Y3205331999)

1832. August 8th (Wednesd") Duchess of Kent and Princess Victoria stayed at the William Bulkeley Hotel(now Bulkeley Arms) on a tour of Wales. Celebrations held at the George & Dragon, and throughout Beaumaris. (MS no ref)
